

KEPT WEDDING SECRET LONG.

Syracuse Girl Now Announces that She Was Married Seven Years Ago.

WAS WED AT SCHOOL.

"Miss Cushing" Says that She Kept Story to Herself Because of the Young Man's Request—He Leaves Town.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 5.—A secret marriage of seven years standing is announced by her who has been known as Miss Mary Willard Cushing, a Syracuse University co-ed, the class of 1895. The bridegroom being Moses Packard, of M. & N. J. Packard, brokers, who has lately settled up his business affairs and left town, it is said, for Montana. Miss Cushing is a remarkably talented and refined young woman of twenty-five, a cousin of the late United States Senator Daniel S. Dickinson, and cousin to Consul-General Charles M. Dickinson, of Constantinople. She says Moses Packard was a persistent wooer while she was a college girl in her town, and was so insistent that she finally consented to a marriage by contract, to be followed as soon as he was established in business by a marriage in public.

The public ceremony and the announcement of their contract marriage was postponed and postponed again because Moses said his father was out of the business and would cut him off if he discovered that he had married a Christian.

Miss Cushing's father, Henry M. Cushing, was killed by a fall at the new High School building last spring while inspecting the work, and that time she has been obliged to support herself. She is very popular and is much sought after by young men who did not know she was already matrimonially tied, and her position was becoming distasteful. She implored her husband to call in a minister, Jewish or Christian, and set her right before the world. Still he demurred, and then she learned that he was making ready to leave the city. It was this discovery which hastened the announcement of her marriage of seven years ago while she was at school. She says Packard's father tried to dissuade her from the announcement, saying he would make a satisfactory settlement upon her if she would call in a son, or would go to a Western State and get a divorce quietly. This she would not accede to.

VAN HORNE VERY ILL.

Canadian Millionaire's Son Has Developed Typhoid Fever.

R. R. Van Horne, the patient sent to Swinebore Island yesterday from the steamer Curlytha, from Cuba, is still very ill. Dr. Doty says he has developed typhoid fever.

Arrangements are being made to transfer the young man to some hospital in Manhattan, where he can receive more exclusive care. This is done at his family's request.

SAID THEY WERE ROOSEVELT BOYS.

Ad on the Strength of Their Story Two Lads Tried to Get $5 from Richmond Hill Policeman.

"I'm Kermit Roosevelt, and he's my brother," said one of two lads who approached Policeman Keegan, of the Richmond Hill, L. I. force, at the Woodhaven Junction, then the lad continued: "We are on our way back to Oyster Bay and we want $5."

The clothing of the two boys belied their story, and Keegan took them to the police station. There they stoutly protested for a while, but when the President's sons, but afterward confessed that they were John M. Edwards, aged nine, and Bruce James Robertson, aged seven. They admitted that they had run away from the Heinz Boarding School at Hempstead.

The boys wrote letters—Edwards to Mrs. M. B. Edwards, of No. 45 Bedford avenue, Paterson, N. J., and Robertson to Mrs. W. Robertson, of No. 218 West Forty-fourth street, Manhattan. They noted the boys said they were freed of the boarding school, they were sent back there pending news from their parents.

Levy, Sam Kurnick, Joe Stenberg, Irving Rittenman and Jesse Ludwig.

The list of the volunteers for this year and a half ago. He is now a full-fledged citizen. On April 22 last he married Sarah Connor, of No. 135 Fort street. Alderman Patrick D. Kelly performed the ceremony. Mrs. Sarah Finkelstein says her husband took her to a Fourth Avenue hotel to spend the honeymoon, but disappeared one morning after the wedding, and according to her story, all of her money disappeared with him.

On June 21, the records show, Finkelstein led Fannie Hoefling, of No. 218 Eldridge street, to the City Hall, where Alderman John L. Florence made them man and wife. Fannie brought Finkelstein a dower of $100 and a warm invitation to live with her folks. He accepted. On July 6 Finkelstein and Fannie were married before a rabbi, and incident to their honeymoon they attended a funeral in Forsyth street where the premier Mrs. Finkelstein was a prominent mourner. She saw her husband, learned of his second marriage, and at once transformed herself into a sleuth.

For thirty days she followed the trail that led her at 2 o'clock this morning to the bed chamber of the fickle Finkelstein. She broke into the room, seized her recalcitrant husband by the hair, and dragged him from the side of his new bride. Then, ordering him to dress, she took him by the scruff of the neck and led him off to the lockup.

The bedroom scene aroused the Hoefling family. When they learned that the new catch-law was a bigamist they dressed and flocked to the station, demanding his punishment. A special police guard had to be pined on Finkelstein to save him from their wrath. He was released in the morning, and Court. He was held for trial in $100 bail.

with the privilege of choosing from them in case he should want to adopt a boy. The Minneapolis institution is a small one, and the managers are promptly forwarded the visible supply of children over three years of age—no less than twenty-two boys and girls. Mr. and Mrs. Shandrow are devout Methodists, and an amusing sight was evoked when they discovered that part of the children had never been baptised. The minister was promptly summoned and eight of the little ones were christened at once.

They have just decided to adopt all of them, of whom they are exceedingly fond.

WHOLE ORPHAN ASYLUM ADOPTED BY MAN AND WIFE.

Twenty-two Youngsters Captured Their Hearts, Although They Only Wanted One.

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich., Aug. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. John Shandrow, of South Haven, have adopted a whole orphan asylum, twenty-two children in all. The sons and two daughters are not all infants. Some of them are bright, rosy-cheeked youngsters, already old enough to go to school.

Mr. and Mrs. Shandrow have more than a competence on their 100-acre fruit farm and it has been their life-long regret that children have never been born to them.

To please his wife Shandrow wrote to the Smith Foundling Hospital, in Minneapolis, asking them to send him several children for a summer's outing.

MEETS DEATH UNDER A CAR.

William Turbidity Found Fatally Injured on Third Avenue Line at Post Office.

CRUSHED BETWEEN AXLES

Motorman Did Not Know that Accident Had Occurred Until Man's Body Prevented Car's Progress.

William Turbidity, of No. 67 East One Hundred and Second street, met death in an unaccountable manner beneath a Third Avenue car early this morning. He was the only passenger on car No. 525 when it reached the Post-Office terminal at 3 o'clock. The car, for says he was excited, but he got up and left the car and no more was thought of him.

When Motorman Paul Kirk started the car he felt something obstructing the wheels, and, turning off the power, got down into the street to investigate. Tightly wedged between the axles beneath the rear wheels, on which the power plough is supported, he found Turbidity's body. How the man got under the car and into his peculiar predicament was a complete mystery.

It was necessary to summon the repair wagon to get Jacksaws and lift the car before Turbidity could be extricated. He appeared to have suffered only a bad contusion of the right ear and along cut on the left hand, but he died within an hour of his removal to Gouverneur Hospital.

RIVAL FERRYBOATS IN NARROW ESCAPE.

Heavy Current Sweeps the Whitehall Against the Mineola and Carries Off Her Rail.

The ferry-boats Mineola, of the South Atlantic avenue line, and the Whitehall, of the Atlantic avenue line, are operated from adjoining slips on the East River near the Battery, and are run on the same time schedule.

Bound for Brooklyn at a little after 8 o'clock this morning the rival boats steamed out of their slips together, and with their whistles shrieking as a warning to passing craft to keep out of their way. The tide at the time was at the full of the flood and at mill race speed was rushing from the Upper Bay into the East River.

As the Whitehall cleared her slip the force of the current sweeping against her starboard side pushed her off the regular course and against the Mineola. The latter is the smaller vessel of the two and her guards being much nearer the water those on the starboard side of the Mineola went underneath the port guard of the Whitehall.

The mix-up caused little excitement aboard the ferry-boats as there were few passengers aboard either craft. They hung together for a couple of minutes, and as soon as they were disentangled it was discovered that the Mineola had run forward on the starboard side had been carried away. The Whitehall was uninjured.

After the collision the boats crossed the river and landed their passengers. The Whitehall continued on her regular trips, but the Mineola was compelled to lay up to have her rail repaired.
